Cymbidiums

hardy orchids

Until recently, the Cymbidiums were largely the hobby of collectors, but, now that their many attractions are becoming more widely known, there is an ever increasing popular demand for them. Because of their rarity and ethereal beauty, they demand instant recognition in any garden. They have their own very distinctive color range, including white and the various tints and tones of pink, lilac, yellow, amber, bronze, green, chartreuse, pearl and opalescent, and even a warm, deep wine. Due to the numerous shades inherent, in many instances, in a single flower, it is obviously impossible to make a clear cut color delineation with any degree of accuracy and classify or list them accordingly.

You can plant them in the open or in containers which may be moved into the house for decorative purposes. For cut flowers they are unique, as the blooms on the long, graceful, curving stems will last six or seven weeks in water and the detached individual flower will last from ten days to two weeks, which makes them ideal subjects for corsages, as they can be used repeatedly and remain fresh if kept in a cool place. When you consider the cost of a single Cymbidium flower at the florist's, you will more readily appreciate the comparatively moderate cost of the plant itself, which each year increases in size and floriferousness.

It is an interesting fact that many of our choicest plants are not only hardy but exceedingly simple of culture; the Cymbidiums, like exquisite butterflies, but belying their fragile appearance, are an outstanding example. Their flowers are born on graceful, curving stems two to three feet in height, which rise from the evergreen blade like foliage, some bearing as many as two dozen blooms. In Southern California they can be successfully grown out of doors.

OUR COLLECTION, COMPRISING SEVERAL THOUSAND, IS ONE OF THE LARGEST ON THE WEST COAST AND INCLUDES MANY OF THE FINEST ENGLISH AND EUROPEAN HYBRIDS; A LARGE NUMBER COMING FROM INTERNATIONALLY FAMOUS COLLECTIONS. THESE AFFORD A UNIQUE OPPORTUNITY FOR COLLECTORS AND AMATEURS TO ADD TO THEIR TREASURES. AMONG THEM YOU WILL FIND SUCH OUTSTANDING PARENTAGE AS ALEXANDER WESTONBIRT, ARABELLA, SWALLOW, PAUWELSII COMPTE DE HEMPTINE, BODMIN MOOR, MADONNA, MIRETTA, ETC., ETC. FEEL FREE TO BROUSE AROUND AND COMPARE TO YOUR HEART'S CONTENT, WITHOUT OBLIGATION OF ANY KIND.

We are constantly adding to the varieties specified in this list, including some exceptionally fine and rare items, which will prove very attractive to the specialist and connoisseur, in all sizes from pseudo bulbs to specimen plants.

All our offerings at surprisingly sensible prices

As these prices compare favorably with English and European quotations on the same stock, why run the unnecessary risk and expense of importing (fumigation at port of entry, drying out in transit, import duties and high transportation costs, etc.) when you can get established and acclimatized plants from us at similar cost.

As we are selling from this list from day to day, it is possible we may be sold out of the particular one you might select. We would suggest you allow us to substitute same in the next size pot or another very similar variety as your second choice.

Culture

The two essential conditions in orchid culture are location and soil mixture. Any situation affording filtered sunlight is adequate, such as that provided by lath or spreading trees whose branches are not too dense nor too close to the ground. As to soil: a mixture of 75% coarse leafmold and the remainder a good sandy loam and decomposed granite is recommended. Good drainage is requisite to grow them successfully. Keep reasonably moist during the growing season (April-September). Do not overfertilize; use a weak solution of organic fertilizer (May to September) as conditions warrant. Plant so that the pseudo bulbs are at surface level and keep a good mulch of plain leafmold on the bed when planted out.

Cymbidiums are not particularly sensitive to cold, withstanding a temperature as low as twenty-six degrees above zero. Also, they are comparatively free from pests.

With a balanced selection of early, medium and late blooming varieties, their period of bloom may be extended from October through May. The blooms on the plant retain their perfection of vitality and color from six to seven weeks and the cut blossoms will last about 10 days and are, therefore, in great demand for corsages and flower arrangements.

If the above simple instructions are followed, you will be amply rewarded with these graceful orchids which spell magic in any garden, patio or indoors.

Cypripediums

cool growing type

We have several hundred of this attractive and interesting orchid.

Generally speaking, they bloom somewhat earlier than most of the Cymbidiums and their cultural requirements are similar, except that they require a little more shade and water.

Our collection includes such outstanding strains as Lady Emily (J. M. Black x Resolute), Banchory (Grace Darling x Dickler), Diana Broughton (Doris Black "Venus" x G. Darling "Princess"), Lady Sara (Luna x Mrs. Eley), etc. You will find the flowers unusually charming in a wide range of color, long lasting and ideal for corsages and indoor decoration.

Reasonably priced at from $3.50 to $25.00 each in 3", 4" and 5" pots. Write or call for special list.

re Cymbidiums

We are enclosing the latest issue of our Orchid Catalogue, just off the press.

We trust you will find this list interesting. If it should not contain any specific variety you may want, please write us giving full details, as we are constantly adding to this list from our Stud and Reserve Stocks, which include many unusually fine things that will be appreciated by those "who know their cymbidiums."

Orders can be shipped at any time by Railway or Air Express, and are carefully packed at actual cost to us.

As explained in the catalogue, it is practically impossible to give a color description of each item, but if you should require information on any particular one, we shall be glad to advise you in a general way to the best of our ability.

Thanking you and hoping to have an opportunity of taking care of your requirements.
